What is Canadian Coalition of Municipalities against Racism and Discrimination (CMARD)?

The Canadian Coalition of Municipalities against Racism and Discrimination is part of an international network of cities launched by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) in 2004. It is a network of municipalities interested in sharing experiences and good practices on policies and programs to fight racism and discrimination. CMARD taps national, regional and local expertise of local governments, federal partners, police boards and civil society organizations. By taking action to combat racism and multiple forms of discrimination, municipalities contribute to achieving respectful, inclusive and safe societies where everyone has an equal opportunity to participate in the economic, social, cultural, recreational and political life of the municipality.

CMARD is supported by the Canadian Commission for UNESCO, the Canadian Association of Statutory Human Rights Agencies (CASHRA), the Federation of Canadian Municipalities (FCM), the Canadian Race Relations Foundation (CRRF), the National Association of Friendship Centres, the Human Rights Commissions in Alberta, Ontario and Saskatchewan, the Alberta Urban Municipalities Association, the Union des municipalités du Québec, the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities, the Chaire de recherche en immigration, ethnicité et citoyenneté and numerous local partners.
